SMITH BROS FLOORS

What we need from the website team

We are adding a “Get Your Free Estimate” pop-up form to the website. You add one line of code, and we handle everything else. Here is what we need back from you.

1. Your website addresses

- The exact address(es) of the site, starting with https:// (for example https://www.example.com)
- Both the www and non-www versions, if both load
- Any staging or test site you use

Why: We add these to an approved list. The form is rejected from any site not on it.

2. Which buttons open the form

- A list of the pages and button names that should open it (for example “Get Free Estimate” in the header, “Begin Your Project” on the homepage)

Why: So we can test every button together.

3. How you will add the script

- Confirm you can add one line of code to the site footer (a plugin such as WPCode, or your theme’s footer scripts setting)
- You do not need to share any login with us

Why: It is one line, added once for the whole site. It takes about ten minutes.

4. Plugins that may get in the way

- Tell us if the site uses a speed or caching plugin (WP Rocket, Autoptimize, LiteSpeed) or a security plugin that blocks outside scripts

Why: These are the usual reason a script fails on WordPress. If so, embed.js needs to be excluded from them.

5. The booking link and tracking

- The Calendly link customers should use to book a consultation (if you have it)
- Whether you track form submissions in Google Analytics or Google Ads, so we do not break your reporting

Why: The booking button appears after the form, and we want your reports to keep working.

6. The old form and a test time

- Are you replacing a current form, and when should it be switched off, so leads do not go to two places?
- A time to test: you add the script, submit a test lead, and tell us. We confirm it arrived.

Why: So the switch happens cleanly with no missed leads.

What you will get from us

- The one line of code and a short step-by-step guide for WordPress
- Please note: the form and its code belong to Smith Bros Floors and are for the Smith Bros website only
